eLesson #1 (of 3)

NEW Larry's Quizzes- Endplays

Endplay is a term that sounds scary, but really it's just about how you can get your opponents to lead a suit rather than play it yourself. While poor defenders will break new suits for declarer, good defenders know that they are often better off making declarer work for every trick. See if you, as declarer, know how to make your defenders help you out.

Article- The Penalty Double Has Died and Gone to Heaven

Larry was just announced as a candidate for the ACBL Hall of Fame. This great honor has led him to think back on some of the great bridge players and teachers he has met along the way. Bernie Chazen was a larger than life figure, and good friend.

He liked to say "The Penalty Double has Died and Gone to Heaven," and he was right. Share this article with any of your partners who think high-level doubles are for penalties (and read it yourself if you have the same thought).

Real Deal #25

In this real deal from Better Bridge Magazine, you'll face a classic dilemma for a first seat bidder: do you preempt with a void? See Larry's thoughts on that and also the best way to handle a common, but difficult trump holding.
