Counting

Counting is a fundamental skill and it's related to memory in bridge. Many players think that they need to remember every card played. That's wrong! Instead, players need to be able to count properly. Trying to count 1, 2, 3, 4 won't cut it. Larry briefly describes his favorite way to count in this article.

Larry's Quizzes: Opening Leads #2

Opening leads are always difficult. Most of the time, you'll close your eyes and hope. Sometimes, though, your hand or the auction will indicate that a certain lead is likely to hit partner. See if you pick the leads that will work best on the following deals.

Bidding with Larry #1164

Partner makes a game forcing jump shift. You have minimal values, a singleton in partner's first suit, and some tolerance for the new suit. What will you do?
