Larry's

The opening lead is made based on incomplete information. All we know is our hand and the auction. At trick two, however, we get to see the dummy. Do we continue what partner started or switch paths in light of the new information? In this series, Larry will show you how to interpret the dummy and the auction to make successful decisions at this pivotal point in the play.

Apr 8 - Part 1
Apr 15 - Part 2
Apr 22 - Part 3
Apr 29 - Part 4

MICHAEL BERKOWITZ WEBINARS

Double is the most neglected call in the bidding box. There are lots of names for doubles "takeout, negative, support, lead-directing, etc", but that can confuse the issue and make the topic seem unapproachable.

In this series, Michael will break down not only what various doubles mean, but how to respond when partner makes a double.

Fridays @ 2:00PM Eastern
